

FORUM

The Stieglmeyer-Group's company magazine

The nurses' room of today

19. February 2014 // Produkte & Service

The nurses' room is the support point for every floor or unit. This is where the entire organisation and administration for the unit takes place, where patient care is planned and where medicines are stored and prepared for distribution.

Furnishing concepts by Stieglmeyer make daily routines easier for staff

The nurses' room is the support point for every floor or unit. This is where the entire organisation and administration for the unit takes place, where patient care is planned and where medicines are stored and prepared for distribution. The nurses' room is also where the nursing or care staff can retreat during breaks or rest during night shifts. A pleasant staff room now has high overall value for employees.

The rooms are often small, which means that the interior design is architecturally demanding. In addition, the furniture needs to be ergonomic and convenient to operate. Stieglmeyer used this list of requirements to develop furniture that is practical and tailored to the needs of the nursing or care staff.

Based on a comprehensive analysis, we design and build individual service rooms, reception areas etc. our experts offer you

- on-site room analysis
- assessment and concept
- custom design
- precise on-site installation

We plan everything for you individually and professionally - all from a single source.

You can see more furnishing examples at our trade fair stand or in our exhibition centre.

<https://www.stieglmeyer-forum.com/en/products-services/the-nurses-room-of-today.html>